Re: Provision for Homebound Publishers to Receive the 2015 Tagalog Convention Program

Dear Brothers:

Many of our brothers and sisters have circumstances that will limit their ability to attend one of the 2015 “Imitate Jesus!” regional conventions in person. For such ones, video recordings of the convention program will be made available to view on a mobile device or on a computer.

The Tagalog regional convention program that will be presented in Quezon City, Philippines, from October 9–11, 2015, will be available for viewing beginning Friday, October 23, 2015. This convention will be provided as six recordings, one for each session of the three-day convention. No other Tagalog conventions will be recorded. These recordings will be available in the JW Stream website until the next convention season.

Please do not announce this provision to the congregation. The body of elders will determine who qualifies for this provision and will give each one the information below that pertains to his language. An elder should instruct the publisher that the link is not to be distributed and that the publisher should not view the convention before his congregation attends the convention.

You may explain the aforementioned provision to publishers who miss the convention because of sickness or other circumstances. Such publishers may also be provided with the attachment How to Watch the Convention on JW Stream. Since this provision involves technology that may be difficult for the elderly and infirm to use, elders should be alert to provide assistance. If the elderly and infirm do not have equipment to access the program, please have publishers who are familiar with this technology assist them by loaning equipment, providing downloaded files, or in some other way making it available to them.

We encourage publishers to attend the convention personally, if at all possible. (Heb. 10:24, 25) However, for those whose circumstances limit their ability to attend in person, we are happy to make this provision possible. Be assured of our warm Christian love and greetings.

Your brothers,

OF THE PHILIPPINES, INC.
